

MESSAGE FROM AVALON

I went on a trip to Avalon with other women. There were nine of us.

On the first night of our trip, early in the morning I had a vivid dream.

I saw how many and many women stood in a large circle on a meadow under the Tower.

The meadow was not a flat surface, but it was breast-shaped, so I realized later that the women stood in a spiral that was growing ever larger from the center of the meadow until it formed a large circle at the edge of the meadow.

All the women that went on this trip were part of this circle. I could sense great joy and sanctity of women standing on the meadow below the Tower. Every woman said something, but I didn't know what she was saying. I just knew that these women then went to all corners of Mother Earth.

The same day around lunch time we went together to the Tower. Then I knew exactly on which meadow the women were standing in my dream and I showed it to the other women. The meadow had the shape of a female breast.

When I woke up from that dream this morning, I wanted to fall asleep again. I felt a very kind voice that urged me to get up and write.

The kind voice then said the following words:

This Earth is sacred. Here in Avalon, Mother Earth's energy connects with female energy and creates the sanctity of this Earth. And you came back home. You are women of an ancient circle of women. You have promised to honor this earth, sacredness of Life and sacredness of the Earth.

But you cannot change the decisions of other human beings, but only your own. If you maintain respect for Earth and Life in your heart and perceive the sacredness of this Earth, then you fulfil your mission of the circle of women that you are part of.

The time has come for you to give back to you your Freedom, for it is not your task to change other human beings, but to shine with your Light of Love that will light up the way of others. They will then make the change within themselves and begin to honor this Earth and Life, and thus the sacredness of Earth and Life on Earth will be restored.

The mission of a woman is to LOVE UNCONDITIONALLY and not to fight. With her Love, a woman expresses Respect for Life and thus protects the sacredness of the Earth and thus fulfils her mission. You have started to misunderstand your promise and have begun to fight. As the woman began to fight, she also began to lose her ability to love unconditionally.

You protect the sanctity of Earth and Life as women by your Love, by being able to love unconditionally, not by fighting.

The unconditional love of a woman is an expression of Respect for Life.

And this is the essence of the promise you have made, not a fight. Fighting creates pain in human beings and they turn away their hearts from Love and thus human beings cannot love unconditionally.

Conditions will create restrictions and prohibitions and later prejudices, thus losing the sanctity of Life.

By keeping all these limitations, prohibitions and prejudices, you lose your Freedom.

AND FREEDOM IS LOVE WITHOUT CONDITIONS.

Therefore, it is the sacred mission of a woman to love unconditionally, because with her unconditional Love, the woman restores Freedom to Earth.

FREEDOM dissolves in your heart the prejudices that you have accepted and created in yourself, in this way the Sacredness is restored within You. And Sacredness will give back to you the ability to love unconditionally.

And unconditional Love will return to you that deep original respect for Life and thus fulfil your mission.

And this is a closed circle.

At the beginning of being on Mother Earth, you understood this promise and women loved unconditionally, and so the Harmony of being on Mother Earth kept on renewing.

The harmony of being is a simultaneous expression of Life's Respect and Life's Sanctity on Earth and for Mother Earth, which, like a woman, gives life and love to all.

Mother Earth loves unconditionally, therefore life as such, develops freely on Mother Earth.

A woman is like the Earth and therefore her mission is to love unconditionally. With her unconditional Love, a woman expresses Respect for Life and at the same time creates the Sacredness of Life on Mother Earth.

And this is the essence of the promise you made to yourself. You have never sworn by this promise to protect the sanctity of Life and this Earth by fighting.

So, women, stop fighting and start loving unconditionally.

With your Unconditional Love you will restore Freedom on Earth, Respect for Life, the Sanctity of Life and Earth, and thus return the original Harmony of Being on Mother Earth that was there at the beginning .
