

POWERLESSNESS – Part 3.

He was angry with himself in the camp that he had allowed it, that he had fallen into the trap. The fact that he could not change his situation and that he was trapped in the camp for the rest of his life, led to great feelings of powerlessness within himself because he couldn't do anything about it.

Often times, when you are helplessness, you curse those people who you assume were behind all the situation you were in. The energy of this curse, however, will not affect the other human beings against whom it was created, because they know nothing about the existence of this curse and have therefore never received this energy. This energy remains a part of the energy field of the human being that created it and will affect the young man on the subconscious level in each of his subsequent incarnations until he can consciously understand and accept the Knowledge of that life and accept the responsibility for all energies in that past life he created in himself. Then he will get a gift in the form of COMPASSION, then he can cancel the curse and give forgiveness to himself and to other human beings.

The anger that the young man created in him was dissolved by COMPASSION but it was the energy of self-anger that he subconsciously transmitted on others, and this anger prevented him from forgiving himself. Because he could not forgive himself, he could not forgive others.

And the only way, the only way he could have survived at that time was forgiving himself. But he could not forgive himself because he could not ACCEPT what has happened in his life as his past experience. With the energies he created in himself, he could do nothing. He must be born again.

In accordance with the Law of Conservation of Energy, all created energies will remain part of the energy field of its creator also in his subsequent lives. It is so that the human being can then change all the energies that he has created in that past life. In order to do so, first, it is necessary to transform those energies through Forgiveness into Love. It will happen in the incarnation in which he can fill his heart with Love and Compassion for himself, to forgive himself first of all.

I call off and cancel the curse of all the people who in any way participated in the fraud that has been committed to me, which caused that I was deceived and thrown into the leprosy camp.

I forgive myself for having cursed all those people who committed this scam on me.

I forgive myself my pride, arrogance, the inexperience of youth, and the reliance on my physical strength and that I believed I am unbeatable.

I forgive myself for allowing myself to be deceived, manipulated.

I forgive myself for creating this powerlessness within me and stop believing in Love.

I forgive myself for losing the Light of Faith, Faith, Trust and Love.

I forgive myself for being angry with God and blaming him for being unfair.

By this FORGIVENESS, this human being will return to himself his FREEDOM.

FREEDOM is a consequence of FORGIVENESS.

And you will return to LOVE through FORGIVENESS and FREEDOM.

They are connected indivisibly and inseparably.

They are, in a certain concept of the trinity and are connected in a triangle.

LOVE WITHOUT FORGIVENESS is NOT LOVE.

LOVE WITHOUT FREEDOM is also not LOVE. One without the other does not exist.

Similarly, FREEDOM without LOVE is not FREEDOM.

Nor will you get FREEDOM if you carry unforgiveness in yourself.

And Love without Forgiveness and Freedom is false, and it only pretends to be LOVE, but it is not Love, because Freedom without Love is not Freedom, and if we do not forgive it is not Love too.

FORGIVING YOURSELF, GIVES YOU FREEDOM.

And the opposite side of the triangle is fear, forgiveness, and pain.

Question: When the older man got rid of the young man, he was not interested in the Love of the Young Woman, but in the possession of her father, that he would gain with that wedding, and he didn't care at what cost he would get that property. He created a certain behaviour pattern, that is „ he has not enough and that is why he wanted more,,. If we create this pattern of decision-making and action in our life in which we experience scarcity, then in those subsequent lives as a consequence of that experience of scarcity, do we create in ourselves just misery and parsimony or greed in relation to tangible property?

Answer: It is one possibility, but it is not always the rule, because it is one way of experience, and for some, it turns around in such a way that he can then shared his wealth. It is a test of how we handle the property and wealth. They are two sides of one coin.

By having that experience of scarcity, he can understand the feelings of people who experience scarcity, and when he has wealth, he can help others and do the charity. He will turn his original experience of lack into good.

And another with the same experience can turn into a greedy, stingy and parsimonious person who shares nothing, so he becomes cruel to others.

What option he chooses depends on the family circumstance he grew in but the main influence is, what love he has in his heart. And even if the whole family is obsessed with wealth, possessions and power, if the child has Love in its heart, it will help other human beings.

And it also depends on the state of mind, in which human being who is in poverty and scarcity dies, whether he come to terms with it, that is, whether he has accepted that life, or dies in anger, resentment and as a victim. Through this energetic attitude, he then enters another life where he brings it all, but he can still change it in that next life.

Whether he can change it, depends on the love in his heart and on his ego, which can then strengthen it in that wealth, and then that human being will either turn it into Love for others, or to stinginess, greed and parsimony, and then it is the cruelty with which he acts towards the others that will give them great pain and anger, which will take away their Compassion, and they will create helplessness, unforgiveness and feelings of guilt within them.

You can transform this powerlessness into the energy of Love only by Forgiving yourself.

In a life in which you create such powerlessness in yourself with that energy, you cannot do anything. You have to be born again because helplessness and powerlessness is a very heavy, dense energy with low vibrations and therefore you cannot transform it straight away into Love in the next incarnation and therefore it will remain part of your energy field as a human being for a long time.

It will take long time, until you fill yourself again with Love so that you can take responsibility for your life and yourself in a broader context, because only this Responsibility in a broader context will bring you back Compassionate Love and Understanding, and only then you will be able to Forgive yourself the powerlessness and transform it again into the energy of Love.

COMPASSIONATE LOVE has very high vibrations of the Creator's LIGHT in it, and that is why it can transform those heavy and low vibrations that fear has created in you with its tool and that is POWERLESSNESS. And once you understand that YOU ARE RESPONSIBLE for all what is happening in your life then the COMPASSIONATE LOVE will become a part of you.

COMPASSIONATE LOVE is the pure Light of the Creator, and therefore COMPASSIONATE LOVE will increase your vibrations, and YOU will be able to receive the gift of the ability to FORGIVE especially yourself, and then you can transform your own helplessness and powerlessness again into LOVE.

Then you regain your freedom in the darkness of hopelessness and you can stretch your hand in front of you.

And it is so because the COMPASSIONATE LOVE is a part of you, and then fear has no more impact on the LIGHT OF FAITH that lies in my palm in front of you and you can receive it and put it in your heart so you will renew your HOPE in LIFE, TRUST and CONFIDENCE in yourselves, in LOVE, LIFE and ME. Then, again, LOVE, FAITH, TRUST and HOPE will become your indivisible, integral and inseparable part of you.

And this is a closed circle that will bring HOPE, FAITH, CONFIDENCE and LOVE back to your life. And so it is. Amen.
